About the IADC . . .

The International Association of Defense Counsel is an association of leading lawyers from several nations who devote a substantial portion of their practices to the defense of civil litigation and corporate counsel or insurance executives who have high-level responsibilities in the defense or management of the defense of civil litigation.

The IADC, which was founded in 1920, has the objectives of providing educational programs and publications for its members as well as facilitating the exchange of information so that its members and their law firms or corporate organizations may provide better services to the public. It publishes Defense Counsel Journal, newsletters, monographs and in-office training courses; sponsors continuing legal education programs and an annual defense counsel trial academy; offers the opportunity for activity in specialized fields of law through committee affiliation; supports Lawyers for Civil Justice; and founded and supports the Defense Research Institute.
